Daughter of the King,

I hope we found you today in a place of praise. The sun is shining on your life and blessings abound. The season has burst into a thousand butterflies and a simple rose was just a cherry on top.

Daughter of the King,

I hope we found you today in a place of peace. Where a thousand notions may be up in the air, but the air turns out to be a lot clearer than you thought it'd be. Where a simple rose was just a reminder that life is

Daughter of the King,

I hope we found you today in a place of perseverance. Where a thousand tears have been cried and the place you're in now is so dark all you know how to do is keep taking one more step forward. Where a simple rose was the rope you needed for the hope you've been reaching for.
